N. STRATTON,
July 23 1922—37 Richmond, Va.

Washington College, Lexington, Virginia.

THE next session of this Institution will commence on the 1st day of September, and continuing through the month of October, and will be so arranged as to adapt them to the various wants of Students. Besides the regular course of Languages and Science, requisite to obtain the degree of Bachelor of Arts, there is also an Agricultural course of Science, adapted to the practical requirements, and a course in Civil and Military Engineering.

The following officers compose the Faculty of this Institution:

HENRY REYSER, D. D., President and Professor of Ethics and Rhetoric.
GEORGE E. DANNEY, A. M., Professor of Ancient Languages and Literature.
PHILIP CALHOUN, A. M., Cincinnati Professor of Mathematics.
GEOFFREY D. ARMSTRONG, A. M., Robinson Professor of Physical Science.
FRANCIS H. SMITH, Cincinnati Professor elect of Military Science and Civil Engineering.
JACOB FULLER, A. B., Superintendent of the Preparatory School.

By the location of the building between the College and the Virginia Military Institute, in its immediate vicinity, the Military Professor in the Institute becomes also Cincinnati Professor of Military Science to the College; and all the lectures and exercises of such Institution are open to the Students of the latter. Thus the facilities will be between them furnish ample facilities for the study of Modern Languages.

The expenses at the College are, for the Session of ten months: Tuition $30; Room rent $4; Board $20; Fuel and Candles about $12—Total, about $140.
Students who may wish to enter, should attend promptly at the commencement of the Session, as all the courses of instruction will be commenced without delay.
Students unknown to the Faculty, must furnish evidence of good moral character, and if they come from another Institution, of their having left it in good standing. None are desired, nor will any be retained in the College, unless they are willing to apply themselves regularly to the studies, and order obedience to the College laws. The discipline is strict out parental, and the faculty exercise a constant superintendence over the morals and behaviour of the Students.

PHILIP CALHOUN,
July 23 1922—37 Clerk of the Faculty.

I have leave to call the attention of the public to the following statement: I have received from the Hon. J. M. McCall, a student of Oxford, N. C., respecting a Piano which I recently sold to him.

E. F. NASH,
Book and Piano Seller, Petersburg, Va.

"I have the pleasure to inform you that the Piano which I purchased of you was so carefully packed as not to sustain the slightest injury, and it is now in the hands of the Hon. J. M. McCall, and is pronounced by a number of competent judges, among whom is our Music teacher, to be a beautiful and fine toned instrument, equal in quality to those in the United States."

"Persons desirous of obtaining these Piano Fortes, would do well, as was my case, to purchase from me, as I believe from no one else. I believe you cannot except those made by Steinway & Sons, or E. & C. Bachman. I saw no other kind in your ware-room, which I now recall, and I am sure you received in good order, and in perfect condition, the number indicated, nearly all of the finest discernible, secured to be in the external appearance. I hope you will meet with much success in your business, and I believe from no one else, as I have injured. Very respectfully,

JAMES L. WORTHAM,
Oxford, June 16, 1922. (July 2) 22—w-4

DEGREES IN QUALITY—Good, Better, Best.—

1. There are Pianos called Good.

2. There are Pianos that are called Good, and are called Better, when compared with those usually termed Good.

3. And there are Pianos that would be called Best, when placed side by side with those called Better.

— Hundreds of Pianos give great satisfaction, until others are seen, but when the majority of the bear persons put themselves very little out of the way, to find out which are really the best.

There are many persons who purchase Pianos because they are the most common and the most easily sold, and not because they are the best. They are the most common instruments for sale in their neighborhoods, or somewhere else convenient to their dwellings, when if they knew the great difference in the actions of Piano Fortes, they would be more likely to go to a place, if they had the means, where such are known and warranted to be the very best, and said subject to be returned if not the best.

There are many others who do not purchase at all, because they are not assured of the fact that the instruments for sale in their neighborhoods are as good as others.

There are others who are fearful upon the subject, because some of their friends and acquaintances have bought Pianos which proved to be good for nothing.

The outside of a Piano is but a small consideration; the important parts are hid from the eyes of purchasers, and even if they were not, the purchaser, generally, would know very little about it. The action of a Piano is a very important part of it, and should be looked to with a great deal of care. How often do we hear persons say, "What a sweet toned Piano," not remembering at the same time, that whilst this sweetness of tone is all-important, yet some of the most interior Pianos have been sweet toned at first, but from defect in the action or some other cause, soon became sour, and lost their sweet tones. How often is it that defective action in the inside of a Piano that are never known or found out until bought and paid for. Any skillful Cabinet-Maker can finish a Piano handsomely, and give it the appearance of a $500 instrument, with a face, if it may not be worth $100. I know many persons, at this time, who own beautiful Pianos that they would be glad to get half price for.

A great many persons will take more pains and trouble in buying a coat or a watch than such a valuable article as a Piano Forte; strange to say, they will in a number of cases take the mere say so of a seller instead of binding him up in the strictest manner.

If those who want Pianos will forward their orders to the following lines of the Petersburg, Va., they will get, and will give me a little latitude in price, I will select such instruments as I will agree to take back if not first rate.
